

And the winner is...

"Shared joy is double joy," they say. Moreover, because it does not happen every day that a small company like mine receives a "consulting Oscar" from the important Swiss management consultancy association ASCO, I would like to share my joy with you personally. The award shows that even small business consultants can achieve a great leverage - and in this particular case even with a relatively small fee.

Why I got this year's ASCO Award for the best business transformation (category boutique), you can read here (in German though). For those who want to read more about the project, I implemented together with the listed company Belimo, you will find an article published in the Handelszeitung here (in German again...).

In Switzerland, according to a new ASCO market study, there are almost 600 small and micro-consulting companies. One of them is Haas ProjektConsulting - by the way, it exists for 15 years exactly. From this point of view, the price for me is also a form of recognition for what we did so far. Another reason to celebrate!

I will continue to do thrive for best results, together with my customers. Thanks to all, who trusted me so far!

Best regards
Roland Haas
